My Town Forty Years Ago — by Grandpa Hamid

Forty years ago, our town was very small. There were only two shops and one café. There wasn't a cinema, but there was a big park in the centre. On Sundays the park was full of families. There weren't many cars, so the streets were quiet. The children were always outside. There was a small hospital, but there wasn't a pharmacy. Now there are big shops, three hotels and a new station. The town is modern, but I think it was friendlier forty years ago.

1. How many shops were there? _____
2. Was there a cinema? _____
3. Where was the big park? _____
4. Were the streets noisy? _____
5. Was there a pharmacy? _____
6. What does Grandpa think? _____
